A NEW YEAR MESSAGE

From the CHAIRMAN of the Prisoners of War Department

AT the beginning of a New Year I want to express our thanks to all those who have supported us so staunchly and have shown such understanding of the difficulties which are inseparable from a work such as ours.

First and foremost I would mention the International Red Cross Committee, without whose aid we should be powerless; and especially their distributing organisation under Monsieur Zollinger, whom we were so glad to welcome here during the summer. Their performance in storing all our supplies and in obtaining transport by which to forward them fills us all with admiration.

We are much indebted, too, to various Government Departments, notably the Ministries of Food and Shipping. The result of all this help, added to the devoted work of our packers, and, if I may say so, our own policy of providing an ample margin of safety, is that there is at Geneva to-day a reserve of at least ten weeks' supply of food and in the great majority, if not all, of the camps in Germany, considerable stocks, in some cases sufficient for several months.

The thanks we have received from prisoners and their relatives, and the amazing financial support of all sections of the public have encouraged us greatly in our work. Needless to say, the two repatriations, especially the last, have given us all new zest. I hope that the encouraging reports from many of the returned prisoners will have brought a measure of comfort to anxious relatives whose men are still in captivity.

The transfer of such large numbers from Italy to Germany was, of course, a great disappointment, but new addresses and prisoner of war numbers are coming in fast, which means that the flow of next of kin parcels can be resumed. On the whole, there has been a great improvement in the transmission of these parcels, though a number of those despatched in January are, unfortunately, missing. At about that time a ship was lost soon after leaving a British port.

I wish I could adequately express our sympathy with those who have prisoners in the Far East. The scheme carried on the Diplomatic Exchange Ship may, we hope, reach the prisoners for whom they are intended.

British, Dominion and American Governments and Red Cross Societies, working in concert are using every possible means in order to obtain a regular flow which, coupled with the right to neutral inspection of all camps, is the only real solution. Though the Japanese attitude so far has shown very little material change there is no reason to despair, especially as we know from our experiences with the Germans and Italians that the changing military situation can make people much more reasonable.

Let us therefore continue to hope and to practise such patience as we can master, buoyed up by the pride and courage which we know our prisoners are showing.

THE EDITOR WRITES—

THE best New Year wish I can offer to all our readers is that before many months have passed they will no longer be our readers. We have lost many readers in recent months because their men have been repatriated from Germany or have escaped from prison camps in Italy and made their way to safety and freedom. In this Year of Promise I look forward hopefully to the time when Oflag, Stalags, and all the other lags will be things of the past.

Sir Richard Howard-Vyse, in his message on this page, describes how the Prisoners of War Department and International Red Cross have been striving to build up reserves in every camp, and we know that some camps already hold supplies enough to last for months. This is a wise provision because there is no doubt about the growing transport difficulties in German Europe.

The Far East

What we know about conditions in the Far East is, unhappily, less comforting. A War Office statement, summarised on another page, shows that only about one-tenth of the total number of prisoners and internees are within reach of outside aid. On the remainder the Japanese have drawn down the curtain. Little news has trickled out, and few supplies have been allowed in. All the Allied Governments and all the Red Cross Societies are leaving no stone unturned to persuade the Japanese to adopt a more reasonable attitude.

Not So Bad

Letters are now at last beginning to come through in more adequate numbers from men transferred to Germany from Italian prison camps, and I am relieved

Official Reports from the Camps

In every case where the conditions are not too favorable, the Prisoner of War Committee is formed. It is the duty of this committee to look after the physical and moral welfare of the prisoners and to make suggestions to the camp commandant. It is also the duty of the committee to look after the spiritual welfare of the prisoners and to make suggestions to the camp commandant. Hungary in Budapest.—This hospital is situated outside the town in a district called Isot. The building is old and well suited for use as a hospital. In the previous period, concentration was tried in the camp, but since then a wooden hospital has been added and the number of beds reduced by 50. The hospital department was also fully transferred to a hospital at Budapest so that there is now adequate living space for the medical cases which are treated in the hospital.

There are still three British doctors, and German doctors and five dentalists, and six veterinary officers (three of them of the German type) are present. (United July, 1943.)

Hungary in Budapest.—Hungary in the country is a large stone building which was previously a military school, and hospital in full size with many facilities. The building is modern and built in three stories.

Any Questions?

An "Investigator"

What is an investigator at a camp, exactly, and who is he and how is he chosen and appointed? What exactly does he do?

An investigator is a person appointed to supervise the candidates sitting for an examination. In the camp he would probably be appointed by the men at charge of the educational arrangements.

Nails May Be Sent

Can I send my jaw at Stalag VIII B nails to mend Air boots?

Yes, in your next-of-kin parcel. This is made clear in the list of permissible articles issued with the quarterly labels.

Helping the Funds

I cannot afford to pay too much but would like to help a little with my own food parcels. How shall I do this?

We suggest that you should contribute as much as you can afford to the Duke of Gloucester's Red Cross and St. John Fund, through the Penny-Week or Royal Pennies Fund. The food parcels and other supplies sent to prisoners of war are paid for by the Duke of Gloucester's Fund.

Farming Papers Wanted

My son, who was a farmer before the war, asks for journals on this subject. May I send them to him?

Certain professional or trade periodicals may be sent to prisoners of war. A permit-holder could tell you, or could find out for you from the censorship, whether any on farming would be allowed.

Useful Garments for P.O.W.s

What kind of useful garments are most useful to a P.O.W.?

Cardigans, sweaters, socks, gloves, scarves and balaclavas helmets.

Camp for Convolutes

What is the meaning of Heftag? A camp for invalid or convalescent prisoners of war.

Marking My Clothes

Should I mark my own clothes with tape names?

It is advisable to mark the clothes sent in a next-of-kin parcel. Full instructions about this are given in the leaflet Pt/A issued with the label and coupon for a prisoner's first quarterly parcel, which the next of kin are asked to keep safely for future reference.

Seize Costumes

Where do the men get materials for their stage costumes?

In most cases the costumes are improvised from materials available in the camp, though in some cases it appears that they have been able to hire costumes.

The Prisoner of War Journal

Is the Prisoner of War Journal available at the public libraries?

It has been arranged that in future copies of the Journal shall be available for reference in public libraries throughout the country.

Stalag VIIA

Where is Stalag VIIA, and is it only a transit camp?

Stalag VIIA is at Moosburg, in Bavaria. It is normally a permanent camp, but in certain circumstances it is used as a transit camp.

Books for Study

Can I send educational books through any bookshop?

Yes, but if you wish for help or advice, apply to the Red Cross Educational Books Section, New Bodleian Library, Oxford.

Far East Camp

I now know the name of the camp in which my husband is a prisoner in the Far East. How can I send him parcels to him at that camp, c/o Japanese Red Cross in Tokyo?

No. Letters should be forwarded c/o Japanese Red Cross only where a camp address is unknown. Immediately a camp address is obtained letters should be sent direct to that camp and not via the Japanese Red Cross. Full particulars are given on Post Office Leaflet P212/B (revised issue dated July, 1943), obtainable at all main post offices.

Flag VIIIH.

A certain number of civilian internees from Flag VIIIH have been transferred to Internmentlager Garmersburg, Helldorf, France, but until this information has been received from each individual, letters and parcels should be addressed in letters to:

Box VIIIH, Germany.
We have no doubt that letters and parcels already on their way to Flag VIIIH will be forwarded to Germany if the addressee has been transferred there.
